Introduction

The two armorials transcribed here are closely related.¹ The first, NLU, must have been a presentation volume like the modern coffee-table books, commissioned to impress visitors and members of the family. It was painted on parchment, used gold and silver paint for certain arms, and devotes several pages to the arms of people related to the Lutzelbourg, Haraucourt and Raigecourt families (segments 01, 13-14, 25). Though the content is mostly late medieval, the compilation and the artwork belong to a later period, the early modern or renaissance.

The second, CLE, is a cheaper, but almost identical copy, painted on paper. The copyist omitted the genealogical material and a half-segment, but also added a few items. The CLE was later bound with other manuscripts by different artisans, but with related material.

The manuscripts

The NLU or l'armorial dit de Nicolas de Lutzelbourg, Nancy, Bibliothèque Municipale, ms. 1727, has 117 leaves of parchment, 275 x 190 mm, with 1667 items on fo.14r-115v, pages ruled for dimensions, and the binding is as old as the armorial. It was acquired as late as 1980, and is of good quality with tightly bound leaves. The Bibliothèque Municipale recently placed a facsimile of the NLU on their website: <http://bmn-renaissance.nancy.fr/items/show/1240>, but the reader will have to turn all the pages from the beginning to the item needed, and the images are unnumbered. Several legends are later additions in a different hand. These items were left unnamed in CLE.

J-C. Blanchard dated the NLU to 1540 from the arms of Nicolas de Lutzelbourg seigneur de Fléville (c.1485-1547, last male of the line), the putative commissioner, and proposed that it was manufactured by professional illustrators in Lorraine. It was inherited by Jean de Haraucourt (1525-1569), husband of Louise, the fourth daughter of Nicolas, and was passed on to their granddaughter Marie-Barbe de Haraucourt (1599-1679). She married Bertrand de Raigecourt and had a daughter Marguerite, who married Anne-Francois de Beauveau in 1637. The manuscript stayed in the possession of the Beauveaus at least until the end of the 19th century.²

The CLE, or l'armorial dit d'Anthoine de Clémery, Paris, Bibliothèque nationale de France, ms.fr. 23076, fo.2r–141v, formerly known as Gaignières ms.849, has 199 paper leaves, 290 x 210 mm (4to), watermark a crowned shield on a crowned pole with two fleurs-de-lis on the side, several blank pages, probably bound with other manuscripts in the mid 16th century. This probably a copy of NLU made shortly after, but with less consummate artwork. It has 1561 items, mostly 4 x 4 per page, and with a different order of segments. Though the quire structure is unknown, the present order of segments might be due to a shuffling of quires on binding.

The additional manuscripts in the volume are:

142r-146v, QCA, 144 items, on paper 207 x 262 mm, similar watermark, different, fourth style of drawing. 142r+v princes (24; 4x4); 143r Bassompierre a.o. (18; 6x3, badly painted); 144r-145v Lorraine (102; 4x5; 146r uncoloured).

146r/v-187v, QCB, 915 items, several arms and names like in CLE; 4to continued, different, much used paper, watermark 'basel staff', third style, 4x5 in two columns; 146v-149r Lorraine & Metz (62, 4x5, few legends, fifth style, two shields cut out); some templates on following pages; 150v-154v + 155v-156r + 157r+v Lorraine & Metz (146, 4x5, 3rd style); 161r-162r Champaigne (53, 4x5); 162v-165v France (127, last uncoloured); 166r-167v Guyenne (66); 168r-170r Bourgogne (81); 171r+v Provence (22); 172r-173r England + tournoi de Damitte avec Ric R.Engl ! (49); 173v-174v Sicily (41); 175r+v Savoie (21); 176v-177r Rome (21); 177v Naples (9); 179r-180r Sachsen (59); 181r-187v Schwaben & Polen &c (273, 3rd style)

188v-199v, QCC, 249 items, possibly a part of QCB; 188r-192v Kings & Princes (78, 2x2, 2x3, 3x3, 4th style); 193r Castille (20, fifth style); 194r Navarre (14); 194v Aragon (12); 196r-197r Østrig (50); 198r-199v Flandern (75).

Their relations

The arms of the nobility of Lorraine (NLU segments 24, 26-28, CLE segments 02-05) was later, probably c.1560, copied into the JHA armorial for Jean de Haraucourt, son-in-law of Nicolas de Lutzelbourg.³

² Lutzelbourg and Beauveau arms can be found on 1r, 2r, and 3r. Three segments displays arms of their ancestors.

³ J.-C. Blanchard: l'Armorial de Jean de Haraucourt, manuscrit du XVI^e siècle conservé au Musée lorrain, à Nancy. Lotharingia, 2001, 10:81-125. Painted on 40 leaves of paper and 17 of parchment, 260/265 x 195 mm, 265 items.

The NLU has been divided into 55 segments,⁴ of which 18 are more or less similar to segments (or parts thereof) found in the Toison d'or group of armorials – possibly derived from either the Bergshammar (BHM) or the Lyncenich (LYN).⁵ The sources of the two armorials have not been investigated, but a few items may be mentioned: the arms of king Christoffer III 'of Bavaria' of Denmark, r.1440-1448, are present as NLU:20 / CLE:16; Philippe 'le bon' duc d'Bourgogne, r.1419-1461 (NLU:22 / CLE:1476) – with a note of the Ordre de la Toison d'or of 1430, but with the arms used by his father Jean 'sans peur' (r.1404-1419); and 'le bon roi' René d'Anjou in NLU:9+76 / CLE:5+18. The Habsburger king of Bohemia and Hungary places NLU:12 / CLE:8 between 1437 and 1457. NLU:280 / CLE:483 is Henry Wardlaw (d.1440) Bp.St.Andrews 1403, dating the scottish segment together with the titled lords of the clan Stewart. e.g. Archibald Douglas (d.1424) created D.Touraine 1424 by Charles VII of France (NLU:253 / CLE:408).

Klaas Padberg Evenboer has recently argued that the segments NLU-34 / CLE-38 consist of the arms of the retinue of Ulrich count Cilly during his pilgrimage in 1430 to Santiago de Compostella.⁶ Already in 1998 J-C. Blanchard mentioned that the lorranian arms were similar to segments found in the armorial de Rineck (RYN).⁷ The RYN is the principal in another group of armorials.

⁴ The segmentation is slightly different from the 50 proposed by Blanchard. Most segments are headed by "sy sensuit la chevalerie de NAME".

Structure and overlap of Lutzelbourg (NLU) with Clémery (CLE) and other armorials.

Overlaps with the Toison d'or & de l'Europe (ETO) implies similarity to other members of this group, incl. the Bergshammar (BHM) and the Lyncenich (LYN). Asterisk (*) indicates that only a partial overlap existed, and small or lower key letters (a,b) indicate that the concordance was with a distinct part of a segment in another armorial only.
