CONTENTS:

Introduction:

On 11 March 1393 a tournament was held on the Groote Markt in the flemish town of Bruges al. Brugge between Jean de Gruuthuse (as appellant, with 49 companions) and his cousin Jean de Ghistelles (as defendant, with 48 companions). This was a local arrangement as most of the participants came from the town patriciate or held properties in the surrounding Vrije Kwartier.

The participants are known from several manuscripts, which are often appended to the Traité de la forme et devis comme on fait les tournois by Réné d'Anjou D.Lorraine & C.Provence and titular king of Sicily (d.1480). The present edition is based primarily on the illustration in TBG/g (le Blancq copy) as conferred with Willems TBG. Several other editions are available, most recently the one in flemish by Jean-Marie van den Eeckhout, to whom I express my gratitude for allowing me to use it to correct and amend the identifications and notes in Clemmensen OM. The Eeckhout TBG together with Eeckhout FM have several details and references omitted here.

This edition follows the editiorial principles described in my earlier publications, with several items having the arms emended. The names and places might be in either french or flemish. The numeration is 1-50 for the Gruuthuse party (as a-00 to a-49 in Eeckhout TBG) and 51-99 for the Ghistelles party (as b-00 to b-48). The Eeckhout edition also gives the legends from several manuscripts and editions as follows: wa/wb for Willems TBG, va/vb for Praet LG, pa/pb for Piot MS, la/lb for leBlancq (Annuaire de Noblesse Belge, 1893:194-203, 1894:187-196), and ca/cb for F.J. de Castro y Toledo (TBG/d), see Eeckhout FM 1:xv and de Prelle.

Manuscripts:

Several editions and notes are mentioned in Eeckhout TBG, but not repeated here. Neither have most of the manuscripts below been consulted. They are listed here for reference only.

TBG/a, 15th C, Paris, BnF, ms.fr.2692-2696, Rene d'Anjou, Traité de tournois, TBG appended to BnF fr.2693, "11.06.1392", owned by Hector le Breton Sr de la Doynetrie in 1616 (herald and owner of LBR) and by Sr de le Hay fl.1707.

TBG/b, 16th C, 89 arms, Paris, BnF; ms.fr.22485:3r-9v; paper, 65 ff; folio; made by Gaillard in Bruxelles; also noted as Gaignieres 879; used by Willems TBG (40 Gruuthuyse; 49 Ghistelles).

TBG/c, Aix, Bibl.Municipale, ms.1152:346r.   -

TBG/d, Bruxelles, AME, ms.265; by F.J. de Castro y Toledo.

TBG/e, Carpentras, Bibl.Municipale, ms.1817:286r.

TBG/f, Paris, BnF, ms.Bourgogne 7810:54n.   -

TBG/g, 17th C, 99 arms, ms in private ownership (Steenhuyse ?); paper, 445 x 290 mm, 2 pp.; bound; fairly rough artwork and lettering - like draft notes and only; partly coloured and many arms miscoloured; Or very faded; outer rim cut; legends in flemish (placed before the ¤ in the list of items). Gruuthuse party on left and Ghistelles party on right of 2 facing pages, each of 5 rows of 10. Dated 11th March. Arms of the principals on mid-page almost covered by spine, they are without crests. It has 9 items in Gruuthuse row 2; 9 items in Ghistelles row 3, but with 1 uncoloured insert below; 1 blank unnamed at the end of Ghistelles row 4. The arms of the Gruuthuse party [1-50] are in courtoisie, i.e. facing their opponents. Crests, except where mentioned, are frisian caps ch. coats-of-arms. Reproduced as item 61 in Te Wapen, Heraldiek, teken van gezag en identiteit', 2004, Bruges exposition in Museum Arenthuis.

TBG/h, Paris, BnF, ms.fr.5483:333n-336n + 346n.

Summary:

In itself, this collection of arms and crests is just one of several occational armorials listing the names of the participants of a tournament – and a minor local one at that. But at the same time it is, as far as I can tell, the only or at least one of the few sources of colour representations of several families of the minor flemish town-based noble patriciate of the time.

One major problem facing modern editors of medieval armorials is their lack of local knowledge of the minor nobility in the various foreign regions. If one works near a major library, it is usually possible to identify most families from the upper and middle nobility, if they managed to get remembered into the late-16th century and survived into the standard works of reference like the german Siebmacher, belgian Rietstap or english Burke/Papworth. It also helps, if their seals were noted in one of the volumes of Demay, de Raadt or other industrious archivists. Failing this, one has to use much digging in more or less obscure publications of local history from the last three centuries, cartularies and collections of seals. Such a mode of work is usually only open to scholars and amateurs with a focus on and a place in the region. And then this must be followed by a fair amount of analysis and intelligent guesswork to fit the coat-of-arms and the person or family together. Comparing the Eeckhout TBG with the preliminary identifications of five years earlier in Clemmensen OM, one may assess the importance of local knowledge and the need of cooperation. The end result was a hit rate increase from 86 to 99%, only one person, Rysele [87] in my view, being a questionable identification, due to the difficulty of matching the information available to a minor one of several families.

The provenance of the contents is also interesting. The expenses and the date of the occation was noted in the town accounts, and we know that for many such occations the participants were listed or even put into verse (Clemmensen TSO, TCH). But we really do not know why Réné d'Anjou or one of his earlier copyists chose to append a version of exactly this list of names and arms to his treatise. But it allowed the list to survive in several manuscripts of differing artistic value and precision, after translations between french and flemish, not to mention later interpretations.

The participants themselves were men in their prime led by the heads of the two major families, Gruuthuse and Ghistelles. One may note that many of the participating families were intermarried across both parties and that several of the Gruuthuse party served with Jean de Ghistelles 15 years later. The town patriciate were as warlike as the nobility of the countryside – perhaps they were as much country gentlemen as bourgeois – viz. the many who joined the expeditionary force of Jean 'sans peur', son and heir of the count-duke Philippe 'hardi' of Flanders and Bourgogne for the crusade that ended in defeat, death and capture at Nicopolis in 1396. Some of the older men had already fought for the D.Brabant at Baesweiler in 1371, only to be ransomed in 1374.
